Theme/story in a paragraph

You are a Nold One (New Old One), in a contest of power against similar creatures. Use your unique abilities to control the city and become the dominant Nold One.

Objective: how do you win?

(For 4 Players) At the end of 14 or 7 rounds, be the player with the most owned territories.

(For 5 Players) At the end of 12 or 6 rounds, be the player with the most owned territories.

Tie breaker: Count up the amount of each current Power Costs on tiles controlled by the tied players, and the one with the highest total cost wins.

Setup:

Deal each player 4 Move cards (3 ones, and 1 two) and 3 Power cards (3 twos).

Shuffle the remainder of the Movement Card and Power Card decks, and place them within reach of all players. (There should be a deck of Movement cards, and a deck of Power Cards!)

Sort the Poker Chips by color and place them within reach of all players.

Each player receives 15 glass beads of one color.

4-player game:.

- Place Poker Chips on each tile with a total value equal to the number written (See Below). White chips represent a value of 1, blue chips 2, and red chips 3.

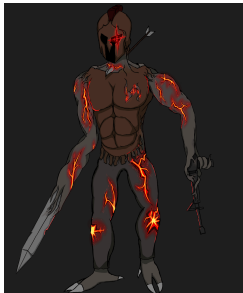

- Players take turns choosing which Nold One to play as, taking the miniature and Skill Card for that Nold One.
 - Players can decide amongst themselves who picks first, randomize the process, or allow the oldest player to start.
- Once all players have chosen a Nold One, place the Nold Ones on the START tiles closest to their respective players, and place one of their glass beads on that tile to indicate their color.
- The first player to choose will go first, and play proceeds clockwise from there.
- Start a countdown of 14 or 7 Rounds and begin the game.
 - If you wish to play a shorter game, you may choose to play for 7 rounds instead of 14.

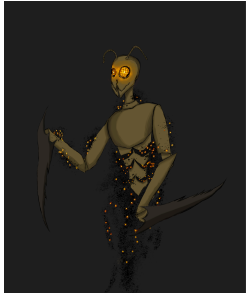

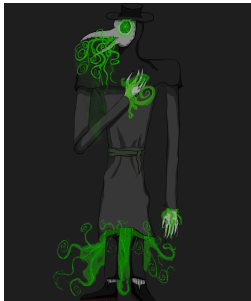

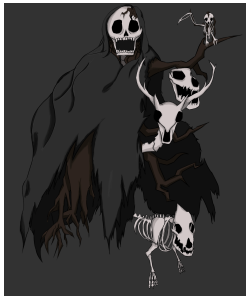

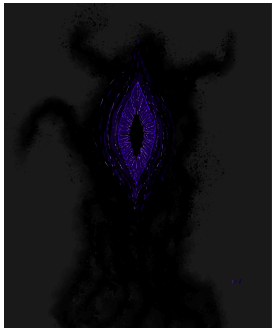

5-player game:

- Place Poker Chips on each tile with a total value equal to the number written (See Below). White chips represent a value of 1, blue chips 2, and red chips 3.

- Players take turns choosing which Nold One to play as, taking the miniature and Skill Card for that Nold One.
 - Players can decide amongst themselves who picks first, randomize the process, or allow the oldest player to start.
- Darkness starts in the middle of the board, other players place this Nold One on the START TILE closest to them. All players put one of their glass beads on their START tile.
- The first player to choose or receive a Nold One will go first, play proceeds clockwise.
- Start a countdown of 12 or 6 Rounds and begin the game.
 - If you wish to play a shorter game, you may choose to play for 6 rounds instead of 12.

Name	Picture	Skills
Cul'lemen (War)		When attempting to take over an enemy territory, add +2 Power to your total power used. Ex. Using 3 Power on an enemy territory will cause it to be 5 Power instead. Draw 1 Move Card after capturing an enemy territory.

Foem'alem (Famine)		Every other turn, force ALL opposing players to discard 1 random Move card. Then discard up to 2 of your own Move cards, and draw Power cards equal to the number of cards discarded from your hand. Turn this card sideways when on cooldown.
Gri'atedou (Pestilence)		Every turn, decrease one adjacent territory by 1 power and increase the occupied territory (the one you are on) by 1 power. Territory values cannot be lower than 1, and cannot be higher than 10.
Omoris (Death)		Sacrifice 1 territory tile to draw cards in any combination of Power and Movement. If territory value is 1-3: draw 2 cards, if 4-5: draw 3 cards, if 6-7: draw 4 cards, if 8-10: draw 5 cards. If you lose a tile due to another Nold One, gain 1 Power Card. Activates once per round.
Se'm Burna (Darkness) * Only used for 5 player games		Once per turn, teleport to any tile within a 2 tile radius. This movement cannot be blocked by enemy territory. If you land on enemy territory, you may draw one Power card.

How to play: What are the rules? Include examples.

- Players take turns playing Movement cards to travel across the board, playing Power cards to capture territories, and/or playing Power cards to fortify territories.
 - There is no limit on the number of Movement cards a player can use in one turn.

- Players can use as many Power cards as they wish on a turn, but they can only capture two territories per turn.
- There is no limit on the number of fortifications
- At the start of their turn, players draw two Power cards and two Move cards.
- Territory tiles have a value of how much Power is needed to capture that tile, called the Power Cost, represented by a stack of poker chips on the tile. The current Power Cost is indicated by a stack of poker chips on it. When a player captures a Territory, they place one of their glass beads on that tile.
 - White poker chips represent 1 Power Cost, blue chips represent 2, and red chips represent 3. The chips in the stack represent the total. Lower value chips can be used to substitute a higher value chip if there are none left. For example, if there are no more red chips, a white and a blue, or 3 white chips, can be placed instead.
 - Starting Tiles can not be captured by any means.
 - Controlled territories can be captured by opposing players for the Power Cost plus 1. If you capture an enemy territory, you may draw 1 Power card.
 - Power Costs cannot be increased higher than 10.
- You cannot move more than one tile through any opposing player's territory. For example, if you play as Famine, you cannot move through 2 of War's tiles AND you cannot move through 1 of War's tiles and then 1 of Death's tiles.
 - The player cannot move deeper into enemy territory, but can still move out into neutral or their own territory.
 - Must pay 1 extra power point to capture enemy territory, which does NOT count towards fortification.
 - Starting tiles act as Neutral tiles and can be moved through without restricting movement.
- Once all players have taken their turn, tick the Round Counter down by 1. Once the Round Counter Reaches 0, the game is over and the player that controls the most territories wins.
 - In case of a tie, the tied players total up the Power Costs on their territories. The player with the highest total wins.
 - If this method results in a tie, those players rejoice in shared victory!

Reference:

On your turn:

1. Draw 2 Movement and 2 Power cards from their respective decks.
2. In any order:
 - a. Play movement cards to move around the board (can be all at once, or broken up).
 - i. Can't move through multiple enemy territories, attempting to do so wastes movement
 - b. Play power cards to capture a territory, but only twice per turn.
 - i. Place glass beads on the territory you capture
 - c. Fortify your own territories by playing power cards
 - i. The value of the power cards increases the power cost of the territory by that amount
 - ii. You must be on your territory to fortify it
 - d. Use your Unique Ability if it requires activation (applies to Death, Famine, Pestilence and Darkness, but NOT War).
3. Formally pass play to the next player.

Reminders:

- You can capture an opponent's territory, but must use at least one extra Power.
 - If you do, you may draw an extra Power card from the deck.
- Max territory Power Cost is 10, minimum is 1.
- Once each player has taken their turn, the Round Counter needs to be ticked down by 1. Players may want to give this task to the last player to do when their turn ends, or the first player when their turn begins.
- Remember to read your abilities, they can be found on the Nold One card you have.
